Trade To-Day at Noon

Messre. Phil. H. Harralson and Eu Christian, special commissioners of the Cotton States' and International Exposi-tion to be held at Atlanta next fall, are in the city, and stopping at Murphy's. The object of their visit is to get the Tobacco Trade of Richmond to make an exhibit in the tobacco building that it is proposed to erect at the Exposition.

The commissioners had a conference ith the Board of Managers of the To bacco Exchange yesterday morning, and after the matter had been thoroughly canvassed in that meeting it was decided to call a general meeting of the trade for 12 o'clock to-day, to which the ssioners will fully explain their plans. The latter spent most of yesterday afternoon visiting members of the trade and soliciting their co-operation, and it is expected that the meeting to-day will be a very large one. A TALK WITH MR. CHRISTIAN.

A TALK WITH MR. CHRISTIAN.

In conversation with a Dispatch reporter last night, Mr. Christian said:

"The Cotton States and International Exposition will erect a building about four hundred by eight hundred feet square, for the especial accommodation of the great tobacco industry of this country. Tobacco now constitutes one of the largest American staples. It has been assessed against all expositions held in this country that the tobacco industry has never been recognized. The great World's Fair provided no accommodations for it, and we propose to profit by that error. An exposition boiled down is nothing but a colossal advertisement, and we believe if the tobacco manufacturers of this country are given a special building in which to exhibit their goods, they ing in which to exhibit their goods, they ing in which to exhibit their goods, they will give it a patronage that will make that department of our exposition one of the most attractive on the grounds. From the soil of Virginia tobacco has encircled the globe, Richmond, her chief city, whose manufactured products go to nearly every country in the world, we feel confident cannot afford not to be creditably represented in the first tobase building ever erected." DETAILS TO BE GIVEN.

Continuing, Mr. Christian said he did not care to go into details of plans until he had addressed the meeting of the trade to-day. Then a full explanation would What other tobacco markets have you canvassed?" asked the Dispatch man.

"We have." replied Mr. Christian,
"visited Durham and Winston, N. C., and Danville and Lynchburg, Va., and I and Danville and Lynchours, va., and have never seen such enthusiasm as was manifested by both manufacturers and leaf-dealers. From present prospects we will have to double the capacity of the fulfding. Our visit now is not for the purpose of getting the trade to take space, but to get some idea of the amount that will be resulted. hat will be required. RICHMOND THE GREAT MARKET.

"We want this exhibit to be thoroughly ntative in character, and as Richrepresentative in character, and as Rich-mond is considered the greatest tobacco market in the world, we want to give her a choice and aid her in making a display commensurate with the magni-tude of her importance."

"What markets will you visit from

"We go from here to Philadelphia and New York, and when the manufacturers and leaf-dealers of those cities see what exposition company is going to do the promotion of this great industry, we have no doubt that space in our to-bacco building will be at a premium. Our commissioners are profiting by the errors of other expositions. They believe that of other expositions. They believe that tobacco men are the most liberal advertisers and tradesmen in the world, and if we provide special accommodations for them that they will give us a liberal patronage

THE FOOD SHOW IS POPULAR.

Crowds Flock to the Temple to Learn How to Cook and to Taste.

The Pure-Food Exposition at the Ma sonic Temple continues to be a place of resort for the people of this city, and nightly hundreds throng there, walk ound among the various attractive booths, and taste of the dainties so hos pitably tarust upon them by the hand-some young lady attendants. The exhibition will remain here throughout the week, and the indications that the attendance will continue as flattering as was the case during last week.

Decidedly the most attractive feature of the show—certainly to the many ladies who attend—are the daily lectures on cooking, which are given by Misses Willis and Wilsey at 3:30 o'clock. After thoroughly explaining just how special dishes should be prepared for the table, they illustrate their lecture by going through the process in the sight of their audience. Yesterday afternoon they explained how to cook chafing-dishes, luncheon gallosch, barbecued ham, oyster saute, and devilled almonds. After the food has been prepared the ladies present are permitted to taste thereof and go away happy in their increased knowledge and prepared to duplicate the dishes they have seen cooked. A very attractive feature of the programme is the music rendered by Professor Stefn's Orchestra. The musicians are stationed in the hall just outside the main entrance, and during the afternoon and evening discourse sweet music. Another large crowd attended the exposition, both afternoon and evening yesterday, and all went away laden with samples from the different booths. The handsome cake raffied off each evening by the Horsford Baking-Powder Company was drawn by Miss Edith Baldwin, of No. 306 west Franklin street.

Governor O'Ferrall has accepted an invitation to attend the exposition, and has signified his intention of being there to vitation to attend the exposition, and has signified his intention of being there to-

The trouble occurred during Mr. Blood's connection with the home, and according to his statement, the men entered the dining-room late for breakfast, and upon his refusal to permit them to have the meal served, they attempted to strike him with chairs. The warrants for their arrests were sworn cut at the time of the assault, some weeks ago, but no further action was taken until after Mr. Blood's removal from office. The grand jury has taken no action in the cise.

LADIES' NIGHT AT THE CAMP.

A Delightful Concert-The Corcoran Hall

Entertainment. Pickett Camp met at the usual hour last night, with Commander Northen in the chair. Prayer was offered by Comrade P. P. Winston. Routine business be ing completed, the concert and recitations began. The hall was filled, there being present many of the camp's lady friends, who always find a warm place in the hearts of the old soldiers. Colonel Maury addressed the camp on war topics. He was quite felicitous in his remarks on the true Confederate battle-flag and its origin. He gave an interesting reminiscence of the battle of Bull Run. Mrs. Burton Har-

Mr. George Taylor very much amused the audience by reciting "The Political Death of Martin Meredith Lipscomb." Next was a fine solo by Mr. Shervin. Captain Frank Cunningham then introduced Mr. B. B. Valentine, who delivered in his inimitable style "Befo' de War" and "Asking Mars William for a Pair o' Old Shoes." Captain Cunningham sang "When the Roses Come Again," and Miss Leahy, the talented young elocutionist, was called for and recited in her artistic way a couple of selections. She was vociferously encored. There were several other numbers upon the programme, which were well rendered in every respect, and received much merited applause.

FIRST REAL TOUCH OF WINTER.

We Have a Slight Snow-Storm Here. It Is More Severe North

Winter is here. Like a thief in th night, Jack Frost stole into Richmond early Sunday morning, and smiting here and there with his icy fingers, caused many an ear to tingle and many a nose

Heavy wraps and furs which had been stored away for many months were dragged forth, the moth-halls and to-bacco were emptied from the pockets, and everybody went forth to church or elsewhere revelling in the change and breathing in the exhilarating ozone. To-ward evening heavy gray clouds began to gather in the heavens, and more than one sage prognosticator predicted that snow would fall before morning. Very few believed their prediction, but about 10 o'clock at night Mother Goose

Very few believed their prediction, but about 10 o'clock at night Mother Goose began picking her geese preparatory to Thanksgiving-Day, and in a few moments the fleecy flakes began to fall to this ter-restrial globe. Thick and fast they fell but the earth had not been fully prepared but the earth had not been fully prepared to receive them, and they melted as soon as they came in contact with the ground. The storm continued for several hours, but before morning the heavens cleared and the sun shone forth at the appointed hour with all of its accustomed glory. There was absolutely no heat, however in its rays, and the day was as cold and the atmosphere as penetrating as in January.

The storm was more severe further north, and at some points along the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac road the fall of snow amounted to several inches in depth.

NO GROUND FOR THE REPORT.

There was a rumor affoat yesterday that there was a case of small-pox or south Laurel street. Dr. Ramon D. Gar-cin, acting president of the Board of Dr. Oppenheimer, investigated the mat-ter and found that there was not the ter and found that there was not the slightest foundation for the report. Referring last night to the report that in some instances children had been kept away from the public schools occause the physicians to the poor refused to vaccinate them without pay, Dr. A. L. Wellford said these physicians were not required by the Cormittee on Health to perform that service. No provision was made to furnish the physicians to the poor with vancine points, and if they were required to vaccinate the poor they would have to furnish the points them selves. Dr. Garcin, speaking of the matter, said it would probably be brought before the Committee on Health at their next meeting. He also said that persons who could furnish their own points would be vaccinated free at the Medical College of Virginia.

OV. O'FERRALL AND COL ELLETT AT-TEND A MANCHESTER CONCERT.

Their Visit in Recognition of a Graceful Act on the Part of Misses Leahy and Pat-tes-Church and Other News Notes.

Governor Charles T. O'Ferrall and Congressman-elect Tazewell Ellett were in Manchester last night in attendance upon the elecution recital and concert given at Leader Hall by Miss Mayme Aline Leahy, slocutionist, assisted by Misa Elizabeth Pattee and the Imperial Quartette. The entertainment was to have taken place the week prior to the election, and the date had been fixed and the hall engaged, but when the young ladies were approached and asked to give up the hall for a Democratic meeting, at which the Governor and other distinguished orators would speak, they readily consented. In recognition of this grace ful act the Executive and the next congressman from the metropolitan district gressman from the metropolitan district occupied reserved seats in the hall last night.

After the concert was over the young ladies taking part were complimented by Governor O'Ferrall and Colonel Ellett, and the two distinguished visitors were given a warm personal greeting by many of those present. One gentleman, in speaking to the Governor, said: "I was born in Chesterfield, and it is the first time I ever saw you, but I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for the pleasure of shaking your hand to-night." The Governor, of course, received everybody in his usual courtly and cordial manner.

The entertainment was most pleasing in its every feature. Miss Leahy is a talented elocutionist, and though suffering with a sore throat, she spoke and acted well, and was forced to respond to repeated encores. Miss Pattee is also well and favorably known to the amusement-peated encores. Miss Pattee loving people of this city. She sang he loving people of this city. She sang her numbers in a charming manner. The Imperial Quartette made its debut in Man-chester, and was given a most cordial welcome. SAID TRAMPS BEAT HIM.

About 10 o'clock last night a well-known citizen appeared at the police station with a bleeding and bruised nose and a caved-in derby hat, with some Chesterfield dirt clinging to it. He said he had been assaulted by six tramps, who knocked him down and beat him. He claimed that the assault was committed at the tunnel under the Petersburg bridge, and, accompanied by Officers Smith and Jones and a Dispatch reporter, the citizen led 'the way back to the scene of the assault. No tramps could be found, however. When asked why the knights of the road beat him, the complainant replied that they were drunk.

Mary Jane Lewis, a colored female, was locked up last night on the charge of stealing $2.50 in United States currency.

Here is a notable case of the dimensional ence between the "bright-eyed minorities and the blear-eyed majorities." Yesteray—meaning some thirty years ago—there was a resounding outery at the notorious sorcerer's apotheosis. To-dry we think no more of him and his infamous exploits there to build a framework round him no more of him and his infamous exploits than to build a framework round him of song and frolic and dance. What an illustration then, to add to the Wagner movement and the Ibsen triumphal march, of the difference 'twixt to-day and yesterday. Not, however, that there is not of the difference 'twixt to-day and yesterday. Not, however, that there is not a bright-eyed minority in existence now, to whom it appears that more suitable subjects might perchance be found for treatment on the stage than alchemists and sorcerers—but this is only by the way. What matters? Indeed, the only thing that matters is that the parody as seen shall be amusing, and this, for the most part, the revival certainly is. The stage pictures are constantly attractive, being brilliant as to color and full of the vivacity that well-ordered motion gives. The costumes and scenery are alike admirable, and the stage management excellent. The third act introduces some specialities of decided merit.

The best of these are the "Alladin changes" by one who styles himself "The Great Oporto," and the acrobatic feats by Rexo and Reno. WELL-PLAYED FOOT-BALL GAME. Hampden-Sidney Defeats William and Mary by a Score of 28 to 0. HAMPDEN-SIDNEY, VA., November 2 -(Special)-Nearly the whole village turned out en masse Saturday evening to see Hampden-Sidney down William and Mary in a well-played game of foot-ball. The teams lined up at 3:30 P. M. sharp, William and Mary having the ball.

The first touchdown was made by Hampden-Sidney in five minutes, But kicking the goal. It took somewhat longer to make the second touchdown, but this time Hampden-Sidney was also successful, and Bull kicked the goal again. The teams lined up again for the third time, but neither succeeded in making a touchdown. When time for the first half was called William and Mary was only five feet from their goal. SECOND HALF.

After ten minutes' intermission the After ten minutes' intermission the game was called for the second haif. Hampden-Sidney having the bail. The first touchdown in this half was made by Hampden-Sidney in two minutes. Three touchdowns were made in this half, all of them by Hampden-Sidney, Bull fatled to kick the goal once, leaving the score when time was called 28 to 0 in Hampden-Sidney's favor. Sidney's favor.

William and Mary played a good up-hill game, but showed lack of training and practice, especially in the matter of tackling. Davies carried off the honors of his team by his fine tackling. Shawen also did some good playing, as did also Parker. Hampden-Sidney played a winning game finely. Rachai made two good runs, one for 30 yards around the left-end, the other for 45 yards around the right-end.

Reynolds deserves special mention for two fine runs, one of 45 yards, the other about three fourths across the field. Buil, Watkins. King, and Chumbly played throughout, all of the men snowing up finely. Rachai made two good runs, one for 30 yards around the left-end, the other

NOVEL RELIGIOUS CRUSADE.

Crows and His Female Comparions Hold Services in Saloons.

LANCHBURG, VA., November 12.pecial.)-Three evangelists came to the city last week and entered upon a re ligious crusade on Saturday night that was a novelty for Lynchburg at least. There is one man, Mr. Crews, and two women, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Proctor. They came from Washington, but were pursuing their work a week in Charlottesville before coming here. Mr. Crews took the precaution of securing a permit from the Mayor to hold public services. He and his assistants held a service of He and his assistants held a service of prayer at police headquarters before taking in the town. On Saturday night and to-night they visited a number of saloons and for a time broke up the business of the proprietors. To say that they created a sensation wherever they went is putting it mildly. It was con-sternation in some cases.
